

First-Time Student Admission Requirements

An applicant who has not previously attended any duly accredited postsecondary institution or Council on Occupational Education institution will be designated a first-time freshman. A first-time freshman must provide a valid high school transcript documenting graduation or an official transcript of GED scores issued by the appropriate state education agency. A student with dual enrollment credit will be considered a first-time freshman for admissions purposes if they never attended another college for more than dual enrollment credit while still in high school. Students with dual enrollment college credit MUST submit college transcript(s).
